

Letter from the Credentials Committee Co-Chairs

When the 2012 Democratic National Convention is called to order on opening night, the first order of business will be to adopt the Credentials Committee Report. This Committee Report summarizes the results of the delegate selection process and recommends the seating of delegates and alternates for the Convention.

When the Democratic National Committee adopted the 2012 Delegate Selection Rules two years ago, it established procedures that would guide the selection of delegates and alternates in every state and territory. These rules reflect more than four decades of reforms made by the Party following the 1968 Convention.

Over the years, our Party has been fully committed to ensuring that delegates and alternates chosen to attend the Democratic National Convention are selected in fair and transparent processes that are open to all Democratic voters and candidates. In addition, our Party has a strong and important commitment to guaranteeing that delegates and alternates to our Convention reflect the diverse composition of Democratic voters in their states. We are proud of the diversity of our Party and the fact that our Convention reflects America.

We are pleased by the efforts of the Democratic National Committee to design a schedule for primaries and caucuses that increased the opportunity for voters from all across the country to have a meaningful role in the nominating process. The DNC and its Rules and Bylaws Committee set the standards that articulated the Party's commitment to fairness and accessibility, encouraging broad participation in our process.

As a tribute to the success of our Party's 2012 delegate selection procedures, we are pleased to report that the Credentials Committee had no outstanding disputes to resolve.

When this Report is adopted by the 2012 National Convention, over 5,500 delegates and over 400 alternates will be accredited. These delegates and alternates were selected by a process that reflects the diversity of the Democratic Party. The journey to the Convention included an open exchange of diverse ideas leading to Charlotte where our party will demonstrate its enthusiastic commitment to re-electing President Barack Obama to a second term.

We express our gratitude to the DNC Rules and Bylaws Committee members; and to Credentials Committee Vice Chairs Janet Cowell, Lucy Flores, Norman Mineta, and Lee Saunders and all Credentials Committee members who gave their time and effort to ensure broad representation and diversity in every delegation to the 2012 Democratic National Convention.

The Credentials Committee proudly offers this report for adoption by the 2012 Democratic National Convention.

Letter from the Rules Committee Co-Chairs

As Democrats throughout the country assemble for our 46th National Convention in Charlotte, we celebrate the success of our President and resolve to elect Democrats up and down the ballot – and retain the White House.

This Rules Committee Report, with the help of Vice Chairs Tammy Duckworth, Diane Enos, Eric Garcetti, and Alan Solow, and all the members of the Rules Committee, contains the nomination of the Permanent Officers of the Convention, the Convention Agenda, and the Procedural Rules for the Convention. These recommendations are made in the interest of ensuring that the 2012 Democratic National Convention can efficiently and effectively proceed with its important business.

The individuals nominated to serve as the Permanent Officers of the Convention have made valuable contributions to our Party over the years and truly reflect the ideals and principles of the Democratic Party. On behalf of the Rules Committee, we are confident that these important leaders are well qualified to ensure that our Convention reflects the hopes and aspirations of our Nation.

The Convention Agenda and Procedural Rules recommended by the Committee establish the foundation upon which our quadrennial nominating convention operates. These rules are based on precedent established at our prior Conventions concerning the Party's fundamental objective of fairness. Since the first Democratic Convention in 1832, these procedures have been continually refined to ensure openness in our processes, integrity in our deliberations, and respect for our ultimate goal. This concept is at the very core of the rules by which we conduct our affairs as the oldest continuing political party in the world.

Our Party has a rich heritage. Through the years, we have developed rules and procedures for conducting our important work. The recommendations of this committee will allow delegates to conduct Convention business, build political consensus, and most importantly, leave Charlotte united in our resolve to re-elect President Obama and Democrats across the Nation this November.

We have enjoyed being a part of this extraordinary effort, and it is our privilege to present this Report of the Rules Committee for adoption by the 2012 Democratic National Convention.
