When the Democratic National Convention adopted the Delegate Selection Rules two years ago, it established a framework that would guide the selection of delegates from each state and territory. These rules reflect the principles established by the Party following the 1968 Convention.

Letter from the Credentials Committee Co-Chairs

When the 2016 Democratic National Convention is called to order on July 25, 2016, the first order of business will be to adopt the Credentials Committee Report. This Committee Report summarizes the results of the delegate selection process and recommends the seating of delegates and alternates for the Convention.

When the Democratic National Committee adopted the 2016 Delegate Selection Rules two years ago, it established procedures that would guide the selection of delegates and alternates in every state and territory. These rules reflect four decades of reforms made by the Party following the 1968 Convention.

Over the years, our Party has been fully committed to ensuring that delegates and alternates chosen to attend the Democratic National Convention are selected in fair and open processes that are open to all Democratic voters and candidates. In addition, our Party has a strong and important commitment to guarantee that delegates and alternates to our Convention reflect the composition of Democratic voters in their state. We are proud of the diversity of our Party and the fact that our Convention represents and looks like America. And, we are particularly proud that the 2016 Democratic National Convention is the most diverse Convention ever.

We are pleased by the efforts of the Democratic National Committee to design a schedule for primaries and caucuses that increased the opportunity for voters from all across the country to have a meaningful role in the nominating process. The DNC, and its DNC Rules and Bylaws Committee, set the standards that articulated the Party's commitment to fairness and accessibility, encouraging broad participation in the selection of our nominee for President.

As a tribute to the success of our Party's 2016 selection procedures and the diligent work of our State Parties, we are pleased to report that the Credentials Committee had no outstanding disputes to resolve and that this report is presented to the Convention without any minority report.

When this Report is adopted by the 2016 National Convention, 4,765 delegates and 347 alternates will be accredited. These delegates and alternates were selected by a process that began in February and featured a spirited exchange of ideas between our candidates that has led us to Philadelphia where our Party is united behind the nomination of Secretary Hillary Clinton as President of the United States.

We express our gratitude to Chair Debbie Wasserman Schultz, to the DNC Rules and Bylaws Committee members, to the staff, and to the Credentials Committee members who gave their time and effort to ensure broad representation in every delegation to the 2016 Democratic National Convention.

The Credentials Committee proudly offers this report for adoption by the 2016 Democratic National Convention.
